Restaurant Reviews Blog Started by Fundraising and Event Firm as Part of Website Re-launch
epiphany productions also Blogs about Life and Meeting Planning Tips

Alexandria, VA—Venturing into the Web 2.0 world, epiphany productions, inc., a premier event management firm based in Alexandria, VA, launched two blogs as part of the redesign of its Web site: www.epiphanyproductions.com.

“Our new Web site helps tell the story about who we are and what we do, and even gives a glimpse into our company’s personality,” explained Julie Wadler, founder and president, epiphany productions. “I am especially excited about the blogs. For a creative shop like ours, they are fun ways to connect and give a window into our world.”

epiphany’s site redesign includes case studies, photos illustrating the scope of its work, two blogs, a company profile, and staff biographies. epiphany president Julie Wadler is writing one of the new blogs entitled “Random Musings of a Wild Haired Shrew.” In this blog, Wadler shares insights, tips, and random thoughts about life, business, and world events. Her inaugural blog provides an amusing peek into the workings of the company and her team.

With years of event planning experience, epiphany has a wealth of knowledge about food and culinary establishments. In its “Eye Spy on the Food Scene” blog, epiphany’s foodie friends and staff will check out the dining scene in DC—as well as the places where it hosts events around the nation—and provide weekly reviews. The staff of epiphany productions—and its sister companies 3Dog Consulting and KRM Executive Livery—kicked off the blog by sharing their own personal favorites.

Wadler added: “Our blogs will be entertaining and informative. Readers will find some helpful event and fundraising ideas and may even discover the perfect place for a cozy cocktail with a client or a banquet for 1,000.”

Widely acclaimed, epiphany productions specializes in political and nonprofit fundraising, strategic consulting, PAC development and event management—including conferences, galas, and charitable sporting tournaments. Its client list includes charitable organizations, corporations, political candidates, national party committees, and political action committees. It has established and produced cyclical donor programs, annual giving plans, and single fundraising events.

Whether simple or complex, epiphany's event planning team has a proven track record of putting together top-notch events. Its customized event planning and conference services are tailored to meet a company's specific needs and budget. Over the years, epiphany productions, inc. has raised millions of dollars for its customers while helping them shape and deliver a message.
